Beloveds,

Saturday is Earth Day and at our Vestry meeting Monday, we committed to again help pollinators by participating in “No Mow May.” This trend to not mow your lawn until June 1 encourages flowers to bloom in our lawns, thereby supporting countless bees and other pollinators with nutritious pollen and nectar. We invite you to consider this at home as a small way of caring for the corner of creation God has blessed you with.

The ubiquitous lawn represents one of the largest losses of habitat for our bees and other pollinators. No Mow May simply provides food and habitat during a critical time in the spring.

Here are some action steps you can take to create more vital habitat for our bees and pollinators:

1. Observe No Mow May on your lawn (or at least part of it) and encourage neighbors, friends and relatives to participate in No Mow May with you.
2. Educate and persuade your schools, churches, cities and workplaces to go with a No Mow May.
3. Keep leaves in your planting beds through May, they protect pollinators in their habitats.
4. Mow high (around 3 inches) to provide cover year-round for pollinators.

This month Wolfeboro Reads is wrestling with Wes Jackson and Robert Jensen's book An Inconvenient Apocalypse: Environmental Collapse, Climate Crisis, and the Fate of Humanity. The agnostic authors hint at resurrection in the creativity and ongoing creation all around us. They encourage us to make changes, not just out of moral obligation, but out of the pursuit of a more joyful participation in the Creation.

The authors coined the term "ecospheric grace" to describe their vision of an ideal orientation toward the natural world. To show ecospheric grace is to humble ourselves before the rest of nature. It is to accept that we humans aren't at the center of everything, that we'll never completely understand the natural world of which we're a part and that nature doesn't favor us over any other species. They suggest we reject the ideal of Earth stewardship, since stewardship implies authority and control. Our goal should instead be to return the biosphere's favor of "the gift of life with no strings attached" by treating it well.

May you find ways to joyfully participate and see resurrection in Creation each and every day.

Christ is Risen. He is Risen Indeed!

Bill+

P.S. Easter isn't just one day — it's 50! Rather than just being an extended celebration of Jesus' resurrection, the Easter season is a time of continued faith formation for all Christians. Today, we celebrate it as a time to rejoice and

O God, whose blessed Son made himself known to his disciples in the breaking of bread: Open the eyes of our faith, that we may behold him in all his redeeming work; who lives and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, now and for ever. Amen.

A Prayer of Archbishop Desmond Tutu

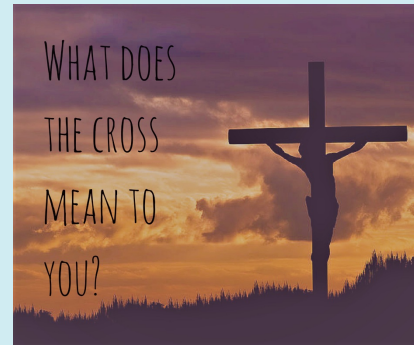

Creator God, you have called us to be keepers of your earth. Through greed we have established an economy that destroys the web of life. We have changed our climate and we drown in despair. Let oceans of justice flow. May we learn to sustain and renew the life of our Mother Earth. We stand with indigenous people worldwide who are demanding restoration of their ancestral lands. We pray for our leaders, custodians of Mother Earth, that they may negotiate with wisdom and fairness. May they act with compassion and courage; and lead us into the path of justice for the sake of our children and our children's children. Amen.

experience what we mean when we say Christ is risen and that we, as the church, are the body of the Risen Lord.

New Midweek Study for Eastertide: Starting Thursday, April 20th

So what's with the cross? What does the cross say about God? What's the big deal? Did Jesus have to die?

During the season of Easter, you are invited to gather, in person in the Beck Memorial Library or online via Zoom, Thursday afternoons at 3:00-4:30 pm for an exciting study called Making Sense of the Cross. There is no expectation that you have certain prior knowledge of the Bible, or theology (how we think about God). Just bring your questions and openness to explore matters of the cross and resurrection of Jesus.

If you are not currently on the Midweek Bible Study and Eucharist e-mail list and would like to receive information prior to our meetings (not required), please contact the church office to be added. You are welcome to attend any or all of our sessions and the outline of topics follows:

April 20th: A Man Hanging on a Tree

April 27th: Portraits and Perspectives

May 4th: Ransom and Victory

May 11th: Substitution, Satisfaction, and Sacrifice

May 18th: Example and Encouragement

God loves you. No exceptions.

The Episcopal Church Welcomes You.

From The Music Corner...

Dear pilgrims on the ay,

As we continue in Eastertide to sing repeated “Alleluias”, rejoicing in our resurrected Lord Jesus, and the depth of new LIFE, the choir anticipates singing the lovely anthem “Christus Lux Mea” (Christ is my Light) this coming Sunday.

Enjoy this anthem at this link, and also on Sunday!

<https://youtu.be/CaGmMn0SQvI>

And from our liturgy for this Sunday, be encouraged in the precious blood shed for us.... shedding the Light of Christ down through all ages and indeed, for all eternity.

1 Peter 1: 18 - 20a

“...for you know that it was not with perishable things such as silver or gold that you were redeemed from the empty way of life handed down to us... but with the precious blood of Christ, a lamb without blemish or defect. He was chosen before the creation of the world, but was revealed in these last times for your sake. Through Him you believe in God, who raised him from the dead and glorified him, and so your faith and hope are in God.”

Amen, and praises to our Lord Jesus Christ,

Holly

Anselm, Bishop of Canterbury, died 1109

Today, the church remembers and commemorates Archbishop of Canterbury and theologian Anselm who is remembered for emphasizing the maternal aspects of God, and for the theory that the Son of God became human in order to make the necessary payment for our sin.

Anselm is often called the father of Scholasticism and “the second Augustine.” He was born in Aosta, Piedmont, Italy, and took monastic vows at the Abbey of Bec in Normandy in 1060. In 1063 he succeeded Lanfranc as prior of Bec, and in 1078 he became abbot. On Dec. 4, 1093, he was consecrated Archbishop of Canterbury. His time as archbishop was most notable for his struggle with King William Rufus over property and privileges, and with King Henry I over lay investiture of the clergy. He was exiled twice, 1097-1100 and 1103-1106, but eventually he and King Henry I worked out a compromise. Two of his most celebrated books are Monologium and Proslogium, in which he articulated a rational, ontological proof for the existence of God. His argument is that “God is that than which nothing greater can be conceived.” In Cur deus homo Anselm presented his understanding of the Atonement. He argued that the God-man, Jesus Christ, who was sinless, died for sinful humanity and made satisfaction for humanity's debt to God. Anselm believed that reason supports faith, and that faith seeks understanding. He stated, “I do not seek to understand that I may believe, but I believe in order that I may understand. For this, too, I believe, that unless I first believe, I shall not understand.” He was canonized in 1494 and is commemorated in the Episcopal calendar of the church year on Apr. 21.

Wolfeboro Reads – Two Weeks Only: April 18 and 25 An Inconvenient Apocalypse* by Wes Jackson and Robert Jensen

Jackson and Jensen examine how geographic determinism shaped our past and led to today's social injustice, consumerist culture, and high-energy/high-technology dystopias. The solution requires addressing today's systemic failures and confronting human nature by recognizing the limits of our ability to predict how those failures will play out over time. Though these massive challenges can feel overwhelming, Jackson and Jensen weave a secular reading of theological concepts--the prophetic, the apocalyptic, a saving remnant, and grace--to chart a collective, realistic path for humanity not only to survive our apocalypse but also to emerge on the other side with a renewed appreciation of the larger living world.
